

High Level Design (HLD)

1. High Level Component Architecture

The CreditGuard AI system is built on a clean MVC application factory architecture. The diagram below details the client, application router, model services, and database schemas layers:

